Schedule

☐ January 12: Sign-in and Conference Kits Collection → Thyme (L2)

☐ January 13: Keynote Speeches & Oral Sessions & Dinner → Basil & Clove & Lemongrass (L2)

Language

- Please make presentation and discuss in English.

Oral Presentation

➤ Keynote Speech: 45 mins (including Q&A).

➤ Presenter Presentation: about 13 minutes for presentation and 2 minutes for Q&A.

- Please make sure your presentation is well timed. Please keep in mind that the program is full and that the speaker after you would like their allocated time available to them.

- Each speaker is required to meet her/his session chair in the corresponding session rooms 10 minutes before the session starts and copy the slide file (PPT or PDF) to the computer.

- Please note that each session room will be equipped with a LCD projector, screen, point device, microphone, and a laptop with general presentation software such as Microsoft PowerPoint and Adobe Reader. Please make sure that your files are compatible and readable with our operation system by using commonly used fonts and symbols. If you plan to use your own computer, please try the connection and make sure it works before your presentation.

- Videos: If your PowerPoint files contain video clips, please make sure that they are well formatted and connected to the main files.

Prof. Jozo Acksteiner

Fulda University of Applied Sciences, Germany

- ❑ Venue: Basil - Shaw Foundation Alumni House
- ❑ Time: 9:10-9:55 (GMT+8), January 13, 2024
- ❑ Zoom ID: 831 2508 3296    <https://us02web.zoom.us/j/83125083296>

“Utilizing Geographic Analytics in Public Healthcare Systems: From Lessons Learned during the Corona Pandemics to Future Applications managing Public Health”

Synopsis: In a world of big data, traditional business analytics reaches quickly its boundaries: Data is plentifully available, but the effort to gather, clean and to understand the data can be a painful, exhausting process. Furthermore, the results of the analysis might fail the reality check.

Geographic Analytics (GA) and Geographic Decision Support Systems (GDSS) have been developed to address these issues, radically speeding up the time-to-insight by leveraging the visualization of data on maps and by shifting the analytics from myriads of data points to visuals on a geographic map. GA and GDSS enable geographic decision making more effectively, with deeper insight and with better alignment in management.

In his talk, Prof. Jozo Acksteiner will introduce the concept of Geographic Analytics and how it is being applied to public healthcare systems. The presentation will deep dive into used cases such as Pandemic (Covid-19) Response Systems (an example here: <https://www.hs-fulda.de/en/wirtschaft/fight-covid-19>). It will exhibit the lessons learned during the Corona pandemic and it will give perspectives in future transitional research topics such as geo-correlations of environmental factors and certain diseases.

Biography: Prof. Jozo Acksteiner is a Full Professor at the Business Department of the University of Applied Sciences in Fulda, Germany, focusing on Logistics, Supply Chain Management, Business Analytics and Geographic Analytics. He is the Director of Studies for the Bachelor program Logistics Management (dual studies), and Associate Member of the Board, Hochschullehrerbund Hesse. Prof. Acksteiner was Adjunct Associate Professor at the National University of Singapore and co-chaired the Supply Chain Management Committee of the American Chamber of Singapore. He received his Ph.D. from the Georgia Institute of Technology in the USA. Prof. Acksteiner has previously worked in various strategic, operational and consulting roles for Hewlett-Packard, Singapore, as well as DHL, TNT and Booz Allen Hamilton Strategy Consulting in Germany.

Prof. Loon Ching TANG

National University of Singapore, Singapore

Director of TDSI, NUS, Fellow of ISEAM, Conference Chair

- ❑ Venue: Basil - Shaw Foundation Alumni House
- ❑ Time: 10:20-11:05 (GMT+8), January 13, 2024

“System Resilience: A National Level Performance Measure”

Synopsis: It is increasingly evident that climate change has induced more frequent natural disasters of greater magnitude that posed threats and major disruptions to critical infrastructures and systems. In view of this, it is clear that we need to look beyond traditional risk management and develop a better understanding of system resilience. Here, we present a unifying framework for defining and measuring resilience. In particular, a well-known example on supply chain interruption is presented to understand the key drivers of systems resilience. We then present a family of recovery functions of which the associated parameters are related to the key characteristics of resilience. It is then shown that the parameters of these functions can be used to form a set of resilience indices. Data from Hurricane Sandy in US were used to illustrate the application of the recovery function for benchmarking resilience performance of power supply companies in New York State and New Jersey. We then examine the effect of learning by looking at the data from past disruptions via statistical tests.

Biography: Dr Loon Ching TANG is currently a professor of Department of Industrial Systems Engineering & Management at the National University of Singapore and a Fellow of the Academy of Engineering, Singapore. He obtained his Ph.D degree from Cornell University in the field of Operations Research in 1992 and has published extensively in areas related to industrial engineering and operations research. He has been presented with a number of best paper awards including the IIE Transactions 2010 Best Application Paper Award and 2012 R.A. Evans/P.K. McElroy Award for the best paper at Annual RAMS. Prof Tang is the main author of the award-winning book: Six Sigma: Advanced Tools for Black Belts and Master Black Belts. Besides being active in the forefront of academic research, in the last 30 years, Prof Tang has served as a consultant for many organizations, such as the Ministry of Home Affairs, Singapore Power Grid, Republic of Singapore Air Force, Seagate, HP, Phillips, etc, on a wide range of projects aiming at improving organizational and operations excellence; especially through better management of engineering assets. He is currently a fellow of ISEAM, the Co-Editor-in-Chief of Quality & Reliability Engineering International, editorial review board member of Journal of Quality Technology.

“Revolutionizing Operational Processes: The Impact of Object-Centric Process Mining and Generative AI”

Synopsis: Although ChatGPT and related software are part of board-level discussions, organizations are still struggling with the basics. Operational processes that seem simple (e.g., procurement, sales, and assembly) still generate problems due to a lack of understanding and proper IT support. Therefore, AI and ML cannot be applied effectively without using process mining to better understand the actual processes and connect evidence-based management views to available data. However, traditional process mining, while powerful and effective, is not without limitations. Data extraction and transformation can be time-consuming and need to be repeated when viewpoints of questions change. Interactions between process objects (e.g., sales orders, sales order items, shipments, invoices, etc.) are not captured in traditional event logs and are, therefore, difficult to analyze using traditional techniques. Object-Centric Process Mining (OCPM) and the newly released OCEL 2.0 standard address these problems. In his keynote, prof. Wil van der Aalst delves into the transformative power of OCPM and highlights the changes in going from OCEL 1.0 to OCEL 2.0. He will explain recently developed techniques exploiting object-centricity and briefly relate this to the interplay between process mining and generative and discriminative AI (from classical ML to LLMs).

Biography: Prof.dr.ir. Wil van der Aalst is a full professor at RWTH Aachen University, leading the Process and Data Science (PADS) group. He is also the Chief Scientist at Celonis, part-time affiliated with the Fraunhofer FIT, and a member of the Board of Governors of Tilburg University. His research interests include process mining, Petri nets, business process management, workflow management, process modeling, and process analysis. Wil van der Aalst has published over 900 articles and books. According to Research.com, he is the highest-ranked computer scientist in Germany and ranked 10th worldwide. According to Google Scholar, he has an H-index of 177 and more than 140.000 citations. Van der Aalst is an IFIP Fellow, IEEE Fellow, ACM Fellow, and received honorary degrees from the Moscow Higher School of Economics (Prof. h.c.), Tsinghua University, and Hasselt University (Dr. h.c.). He is also an elected member of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences, the Royal Holland Society of Sciences and Humanities, the Academy of Europe, the North Rhine-Westphalian Academy of Sciences, Humanities and the Arts, and the German Academy of Science and Engineering. In 2018, he was awarded an Alexander-von-Humboldt Professorship.

National University of Singapore

<https://nus.edu.sg/>

The National University of Singapore (NUS) is a national public collegiate and research university in Singapore. Founded in 1905 as the Straits Settlements and Federated Malay States Government Medical School, NUS is the oldest autonomous university in Singapore. It offers degree programmes in disciplines at both the undergraduate and postgraduate levels, including in the sciences, medicine and dentistry, design and environment, law, arts and social sciences, engineering, business, computing, and music.

NUS's main campus is located adjacent to the Kent Ridge subzone of Queenstown. The Duke–NUS Medical School is located at the Outram campus. The Bukit Timah campus houses the Faculty of Law and Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy.

NUS's affiliated faculty members and researchers include one Nobel Prize laureate, one Tang Prize laureate, and one Vautrin Lud laureate.

Coat of arms

The coat of arms of the National University of Singapore was adopted in 1980 and modernised in 2001. It is the combination of the coat of arms of the former University of Singapore used since 1962 (consisting of an open book and a lion, which itself was derived from the former coat of arms of the University of Malaya used from 1949 until 1962, which featured a tiger instead of a lion), and the emblem of the former Nanyang University, three interlocking rings but without the star used since 1955.

It is blazoned:

Argent a lion passant guardant proper; on a chief azure dexter an open book also proper, bound, edged and clasped Or and sinister three annulets interlaced one and two Argent.

The lion represents NUS as a Singaporean university, the open book represents knowledge and the three rings represents the university's role in creating, imparting and applying knowledge, as well as creativity, innovation and entrepreneurship.

The National University of Singapore is one of two public universities in Singapore to adopt its coat of arms, alongside the Nanyang Technological University, with which it has relations.
